Information we hold

Designated UCL staff have access to the personal data you provided when you submitted your contribution via Microsoft Forms.

If you submit a contribution, we will collect and retain records of your submission.

Both your personal data and information is stored on UCL servers. A copy of your submission can be made available by emailing at2030@ucl.ac.uk and requesting a copy of your submission.

Occasionally, we will ask submitters to provide further information about themselves to help us fill any missing gaps.

How we use your data

We will use the information collected in this survey to:

• Produce a report, including a summary of the ideas submitted, which will be published and made publicly available.

• Inform investments on AT by the AT Impact Fund under the AT2030 Programme.

• Inform IRCAI’s work programme after its official launch in October 2020.

• We would like to invite a small number of respondents to attend an online roundtable event in October. Please let us know if you would like to be considered for this and provide your contact details.

• We would like to share the findings of this survey with all those who have contributed ideas. If you would like to receive notification of the report when it is published, please provide your contact details at the end of the survey.

Privacy and partnerships with external organisations

Please be aware UCL does maintain partnerships with some external organisations involved in the AT2030 programme and through your use of the website you may be directed to sites to which this notice does not apply.

Our promise

Your personal data will never be made available to third parties unless we have explicitly stated. Where statistics are published based on your information, it will be aggregated and never personally identifiable.
